

Lost and found sound.

Finding memories in sound.

Sound as memory.

Seeing sound.

Sound seeing time.

Time folding into sound.

Listening or hearing?

Hearing is perception.

Listening for meaning.

Nothing left now, but the tapes (clicks and cuts);

Winding dead media onto new reels.

Chewing reels into bits of data.

Scanning radio waves for meaning.

Finding voices in the static telling stories of static;

Nighttime listening.

Finding sound, losing sound.

Collecting sound.

Slicing and splicing sounds.

Organizing sound.

Hearing the loss, knowing the found.
